Cruise

Author's Notes:
The idea came from a prompt from Lia with the words \"cruise ship\" and Henkka/Elias. (Sonata Arctica played on a cruise ship for 70,000 Tons of Metal in 2011.)

Breath pants out of their lungs, eyes darting around.

They are coming, and there's nothing they can do to stop it.

They come with cameras and CD booklets.

From every side and every angle. There's nowhere to run on a cruise ship, nowhere to hide.

Elias and Henkka duck inside a room and hold their breath.

Feet thunder past, screaming their names through the hallways.

And then, silence.

Elias slumps against the wall and glares over at Henkka.

Henkka shrugs. "So maybe it wasn't a good idea to pants you by the pool. How would I know they'd chase us?"
